

Matt Christensen
Executive Director

Matt Christensen has served as Executive Director of Eurosif since 2002. Eurosif is the premier European think-tank and industry association for sustainable investment with more than 80 Member Affiliates that together represent assets totaling over €1 trillion. Recent activities of Eurosif include its EU Market Study, High Net Worth Individual Sustainability Report, and successful submissions to the EU asking for improved transparency on environmental/social/governance issues by companies and funds. Matt is a frequent speaker at international events on sustainable finance matters and a member of the European Commission Coordination Committee to explore the evolution of sustainability in the EU.

Matt was formerly a European Director at The Motley Fool, a leading publisher of information on personal finance and investing. Prior to that, he advised FTSE 100 clients as a strategy consultant with Braxton Associates/Deloitte Consulting. He is a Non-Executive Director to several investment funds and holds masters degrees from the Wharton School (MBA) and University of Pennsylvania (MA - International Political Economy).
